TWENTY-EIGHTH SUNDAY IN ORDINARY TIME (A)

When we get an invitation to a wedding or other special occasion, we have three options: ignore it, decline it or accept it. In today's Gospel Jesus tells a parable comparing the Kingdom of Heaven to a wedding feast. In the parable, the King invites many people to his son's wedding and they respond in a variety of ways. We too are invited to a wedding feast. The Church is often described as the Bride of Christ, because the Lord gave Himself to be united to her. As members of His Church, we are called to be united to Him, and the Book of Revelation tells us that this will be fulfilled at the end of time – and Isaiah's wedding banquet prophecy in the first reading will also be fulfilled, 'we exalt and rejoice that He has saved us.'

When we accept an invitation to a wedding, we prepare ourselves for it because we want to look our best and share the joy of the couple. When it comes to our invitation to the Kingdom of Heaven, we must also choose to respond, and prepare ourselves for it. This life is given to us to choose wisely and prepare.

Different groups in the Gospel respond in different ways. Some flatly refuse the invitation, others are preoccupied with their day-to-day pursuits, like farming and business. Others felt threatened and killed the King's messengers. These responses all show hostility to the King, who in the parable represents God. In our own lives do we refuse to respond to God's invitation? Are we too caught up with our own work or leisure interests to take seriously what God is offering? Are we so self-absorbed that our hearts are hardened and we don't perceive the invitation?

The King then commands his servants to go to the crossroads and invite everyone they can find. This refers to the Church, where all are invited to enter – good and bad alike, rich and poor, everyone. We too, each one of us, by baptism, have been brought into the wedding hall. But it is not enough just to be here. We have to make ourselves presentable to the King. We make ourselves presentable by pleasing God in living a holy life and performing good works. The man without the wedding garment represents a person persisting in sin, who does not want to repent. He came to the wedding but did not value the occasion enough to prepare – he just wanted what he could get for himself. He was complacent and did not take it seriously, so the King had him thrown out, which is an image of judgement.

When we are baptised we receive a white garment. This white garment represents the wedding garment, which we are to bring unstained to the heavenly banquet. During our life, when we sin, we stain the garment, but we have a means of washing it again. When we repent of our sins and receive forgiveness through the Sacrament of Reconciliation, our garment is restored.

We are reminded in all the readings today of the invitation God offers us to the banquet of heaven. Let us not put that invitation on the shelf and forget about it, but enthusiastically take it up and respond with all our hearts and minds.
