THIRD SUNDAY OF ADVENT (B)

Today we celebrate Gaudete Sunday – the third Sunday of Advent. The word ‘Gaudete’ means ‘joy’ in Latin, and today the readings prepare us for the joy of the nativity.

We see John the Baptist again in this week’s Gospel, making it clear to the crowds that he himself is just a voice in the wilderness, proclaiming and pointing to Jesus the Messiah. The crowds flocked to John, but John does not claim the limelight. Nor does he confuse the people; he knows he is not the centre and points to the Lord. Later, when John’s disciples begin to get concerned that his followers are going over to Jesus, John simply says, ‘He must increase, I must decrease.’ John knows his task and carries it out faithfully and humbly.

Faithfulness and humility are also two central qualities of Our Lady. In today’s Canticle we hear Mary’s response to the angel at the annunciation: ‘My soul glorifies the Lord, my spirit rejoices in God my saviour.’ Mary acknowledges her lowliness, her nothingness without God, just as John acknowledges his unworthiness to untie the Lord’s sandal strap. In their humility they recognise who they really are in God’s sight, and precisely in this way they fulfil the mission God had for each of them.

What can we learn from today’s readings about joy? Joy is an interior contentment that follows from faith, trust and dependence on God. We can be joyful even in the midst of great trials, because we do not rely on our own strength to get through them. Mary and John the Baptist both trusted in God and carried out their missions joyfully.

The second part of today’s first reading can be our prayer as we come closer to celebrating the birth of our saviour: ‘I exult for joy in the Lord, my soul rejoices in my God, for he has clothed me in the garments of salvation.’ Through our baptism we put on the garment of Christ, and His saving work of binding up our broken hearts and liberating us from our faults began for us. He came to bind up our wounds and heal us, and free us from all that keeps us captive. When we experience this freedom through the sacrament of reconciliation, the healing we receive brings a joy that cannot be described.

God wants everyone to experience this joy. St Paul tells us in the second reading to rejoice at all times and pray constantly. Paul tells the Thessalonians to think before they do anything, to hold onto what is good and avoid every form of evil. If we likewise try to do God’s will in a spirit of humility, then joy will follow.
