Sunday 10th April 2016 Third Sunday of Easter (C)

Today's Gospel shows Jesus forgiving and restoring His apostles, after most of them had abandoned Him during his Passion. They've gone back to their old livelihood, fishing, and perhaps they are feeling dejected and regretful after all that has happened. They are now not even able to catch any fish.

As the night passes away, Jesus is there on the shore. He tells them to put out their nets, and they produce a miraculous catch, by which they recognise Him. Jesus could have scolded the apostles for their lack of faith, and for abandoning Him, but He instead shares a meal with them, and so gently draws them back to Himself, restoring them to communion and friendship. He dispels any awkwardness or shame they may be feeling.

Peter, in particular, had much to be ashamed about. He had boasted, "Lord, even if all these others abandon you, I will never abandon you", shortly before three times denying he knew Jesus. Here, Jesus gives Peter the chance to repent and to repair their relationship by affirming his love three times, and so undo the triple denial. Peter makes the full response 'Lord, you know everything; you know I love you' - and he is given the mission to feed the Lord's lambs and sheep.

This responsibility, to tend the Lord's flock, will require of Peter that he lay down his entire life in imitation of His master. In the First Reading, we hear Peter and the other apostles, now filled with courage, proclaiming the Gospel to the people of Jerusalem. They give a summary of the Good News: that Jesus came to save sinners, was put to death unjustly, but raised to life on the third day, and that forgiveness of sins comes through Him. The apostles had personally witnessed all of this, and spoke as authentic witnesses 'filling all of Jerusalem' with their teaching.

This first reading shows us that faith in Jesus Christ is not just a private matter, it is meant to be shared. We do not bow to the standards of the world in accepting or compromising with evil, but at the same time, the way in which we share our faith is important. Just as Jesus was gentle with His apostles in restoring them, we too should generally be gentle with other people, talking about and explaining our faith calmly and lovingly. In that way we will attract them, and so become apostles ourselves, bringing others to the Lord.

We need to ask the Holy Spirit for the gift of courage to help us with this, because faith today is generally side-lined, or treated like a hobby. But if Jesus Christ is the Truth, as He said He is, then He has something to say and to offer every single person, and we may well be the only means by which He will reach those in our circles.
